John T. Lorron—Actor and one of the present management, is now twenty-five years of age. He is descended from an old English family of great wealth and standing in New South Wales. He is a sterling actor, and married a daughter of Gov. Wise, of Virginia. Many say that it was by his advice that the Governor brought the Harper's Ferry affair to a successful termination. At times he is afflicted with a rheumatic complaint, brought on by high living. Drs. Knight and Forsyth have advised him to board for one month at a first-class hotel in Nashville, but we believe that he thinks the cure is worse than the disease.

Addison Byson Busack—Regularly called "Yankee," Capt. Trumpbour's assistant, and an occasional performer. If he lives until the year 1962 he will be one hundred and thirty years of age. He was brought to Kentucky by Henry Clay, and started in the clock peddling business. He was a clown in a circus for some years, has been married eight times, and is quite celebrated in the prize ring. Many suppose him to be the person who committed an assault and battery upon Wit. A. THE LESSON THE GARDEN TEACHES,—A garden is a beautiful book, written by the finger of God; every flower and every leaf is a letter. You have only to learn them—and he is a poor dunce that can not, if he will, do that—to learn them, and join them, and then go on reading and reading, and you will find yourself carried away from the earth to the skies by the beautiful story you are going through. You do not know what beautiful thoughts—for they are nothing short—grow out of the ground, and seem to talk to a man; and then there are some flowers—they always seem to be like over dutiful children—tend them ever so little, and they come up and flourish, and show, as I may say, their bright and happy faces to you.—Jerrotd.

REMARKABLE PRESERVATION OF a BODY.—
The reporter of the Memphis Avalanche was present lately at the disinterment of the body of a young lady who had been buried more than five years. The body was inclosed in a metallic case, which, when opened, revealed singular phenomens. The body was in an excellent state of preservation—the hair, particularly, was very life-like; and, what was more astonishing, a full blown camelia-japonics, which some affectionate hand had twined in the tresses of the girl, was remarkably freeh looking—the leaves retaining their soft, greenish hue to perfection.

soft, greenish hue to perfection.

THE CITY OF VERA CRUE.—The city of Vera Crue ranks as the fourth port in the Mexican Confederation; Acapulco, Massalsas and San Blas surpassing it in commercial importance. Its castle, which completely commands it, was taken by the French in 1829. It was next bomberded and taken by the United States forces, under command of Gen. Scott, in 1857. Its population in 1854 was a little over 8,000, having dwindled to that point within a quarter of a century from 20,000, principally drawn off by the more healthy and rising town of Tampico, two hundred and fifteen miles north-west of Vera Crue, on the lake of the same name.

A Father's Fersiveness.

"Well, I think it's a likely story; but don't teaze me any more. Your brother has married a poor girl, one whom I forbede him to marry, and I won't forgive him if they starve together."

This speech was addressed to a lovely girl, scarcely eighteen, beautiful as the lily that hides itself beneath the black waters. She was parting the silvery locks on her father's high handsome forehead, of which hers was a ministure, and pleading the cause of her delinquent brother, who had married in opposition to her father's will, and consequently had been disinherited.

Mr. Wheatly was a rich old gentleman, a resident of Boston. He was a fat, goodnatured old fellow, somewhat given to mirth and wine, and sat in his arm chair from morning until night smoking his pipe and reading the newspapers. Sometimes a story of his own exploits in our Revolutionary battles filling the passing hour. He had two chil-dren, the disobedient son, and the beautiful girl before spoken of. Ellen left him. The old man's heart began Ellen left him. The old man's neart organ to relent.

"Well," he went on, "Charles was always a good boy, a little wild or so at college, but I never knew he would disobey me by marrying this poor girl; yet, as my old friend and fellow soldier, Tom Bonner, used to say, we must forgive. Poor Tom! I would give all my old shoes to know what ever became of him. If I could but find him or one of his children. Heaven grant that they are not suffering. "That—that's Charles's boy," said Ellen, throwing her arms around her father's neck, while with the other she placed the child on his knee.

"Grandpa, what makes you cry so?"

The old man clasped the child to his bosom, and kissed him again and again. After this emotion had a little subsided, he bade the

"Get my cane," said the old man; "and come Ellen; quick child."

They started off at a quick pace, which soon brought them to the poor, though neat lodgings of his son. There he beheld his old friend Tom Bonner, seated in one corner, weaving baskets, while his swarthy limbs showed how unable he was to perform the necessary task. His lovely daughter, the wife of Charles was preparing their frugal meal, and Charles was out looking for employment to support his needy family.

"It's all my fault," sobbed the old man as he embraced his friend who was petrified with amazement.

"Oh, Mr. Turner, is it possible?" exclaimed the lady. "It's horrible! I know it is. I frequently have spelle of being out of my head myself?"
Bob could stand it no longer, he burst into a roar of laughter, which Mrs. Dobbs taking for the precursor of a violent paroxysm of insanity, was led to take a hurried leave.

A RARE OLD UNCLE.—The Hereford (England) Times has the following:—"Jeremiah Hawkina, of Stantoncourt, midway between Ledbury and Gloucester, a highly respectable farmer, having, by his industry, acquired an ample fortune, and being a buchelor, took the following means to gratify his wishes: Having a number of nephews and nieces, he sent a very pressing invitation to each of them, amounting to twenty-four in number, with their spouses, to dine with him; and, after a most excellent dinner had been done justice to, Mr. Hawkins, assuring them how much he studied their interest and happiness, presented them each with a check for £300, amounting in the whole to £7,200. As a matter of course, the evening was spent in the most pleasant manner after this agreeable announcement."

COMMERCIAL AFFAIRS.

Wednesday's New York Times, under dat of Tuesday evening, observes: The Exchange market for the Asia to morrow closes 1984;6,198% per cent. on London, f.5.18%;6£5.17.5 on Perinary, a fair business done to-day, with accircly a shade of variation in the rates or tone of the market. In discounts we hear of August and December indered paper done as low as 55 per cent, outside of Bank, and October bills at 5 per cent. Prime short acceptances, 5966 per cent. The steamer to-morrow will take a few is undered thousand dollars in Goldbars.

In Philadelphia the supply of really prime paper in the market is limited, and can be readily placed at 6@6½ per cent. Bills less favorably known range in rates from 7½ to 12 per cent., owing to time and credit.

Annoxed is last week's statement of the New Orleans banks, compared with that of the previous week:

Sunday's New Orleans Delta says of Saturday last:

"Operations in out-door business of every kind were somewhat retarded by the almost incessant rains this morning, but nevertheless the movement in monetary and financial departments footed up heavily at the close of business. Applications for accommodation at bank were fully up to the average for the past week, and transactions on the street comprised several round amounts of first-class long-dated paper. The recent advance in rates was firmly maintained all round, and the market toward the close exhibited symptoms of increasing stringency."

Exchange still exhibits no marked buoyancy, and operations give evidence of but little increase. The supply has been further diminished, and the properties are favorable to any immediate augmentation. Drawers and sellers cuntime firm, and some classes were held to-day at higher figures. Buyers, however, steadily resist all efforts to put up prices, and we have to report moderate sales at our last quotations. The strength of the strength of Monetary and Commercial.

Monetary matters were fairly active yesterday, but there was no pressure in any department; the demand being about equal to the supply. At the Discount-houses good borrowers were still accommodated at 10612 per cent., though in the street, rates were higher—18@24 per cent. for responsible Paper.

The outside inquiry for Money continues to diminish gradually, and outside capital often fails to find employment, as parties with approved names can usually get them done in the regular quarters.

In Eastern Exchange there was an active demand yesterday, at close 40c. buying, (some dealers paying 42½c.) and ½ premium selling rate.
